This title was first published in 2001. This work is a uniquely multi-disciplinary contribution to the existing bioethical literature on the topic of informed choice of medical services. It is also the first comprehensive bioethical text to confront the central issue of power in the clinical encounter and to argue for statutory protection of the right to informed choice while the majority of bioethicists argue for a conciliatory rather than adversarial approach to the chronic problem of uninformed consent. The author of this work argues that the external regulation of medicine is essential if the right to informed choice is to be protected. This argument is based upon an extensive review of the bioethical, legal, political, medical, sociological, and philosophical literature as well as a wide range of empirical and anecdotal evidence evolving from a detailed exploration of power and the limits of rationality in the clinical encounter.
